

Kaye Lovejoy

Headmistress Coopersale Hall School

Kaye Lovejoy has been Headmistress of Coopersale Hall School since January 2011 and relishes her role at Epping's only independent preparatory school. Additionally, she is also an Inspector for the Independent Schools Inspectorate.

“As a prep school we are completely focused on our age range and are able to guide and nurture our pupils. Our purpose is straightforward, to encourage all our pupils to enjoy learning and to make the most of their talents, be they academic, technological, sporting, artistic or musical.

Our broad curriculum and extensive range of extra-curricular activities provide a wealth of enjoyable, fun learning experiences. We are fortunate to have an excellent teaching staff, many of whom are specialists in their subjects such as Music, French, PE, Science and ICT.

Our last ISI inspection report found us to be excellent. It is always very gratifying to be found excellent, but where do we go from here? Can excellent become even more excellent? The answer is quite simple – to maintain an excellent standard requires dedication, continuous assessment and re-assessment of everything that we offer and the results that are achieved.

Being a free standing prep school means that we provide a genuine freedom of choice for our pupils when they move on to senior schools at age 11. Our pupils are prepared fully to make the most of the challenges and opportunities that lie ahead of them. By having a choice of senior education parents can select the schools best suited to the needs and aspirations of their children. Our pupils leave Coopersale Hall, happy and fulfilled, ready for life at senior school.”
